HOWARD NORTHCUTT

New City Manager Due Here

The new Canyon city manager, Howard F. Northcutt, and his family will be moving to Canyon this weekend.

The family will live at 2605 12th Ave. Northcutt and his wife, Sandra, were in Canyon Saturday and Sunday to make arrangements for the move.

Northcutt said, "the first few months we will be looking forward to meeting everyone and becoming part of the community."

"I hope to establish a real good working relationship with the city council and I'm sure that's the way it will be," he said.

Northcutt will assume his duties as city manager Monday.

An administrative assistant to the city manager in Wichita Falls, Northcutt will replace Paul Davis who resigned to accept a similar position in Kerrville.

Northcutt and his wife have two children, Beth, two, and Brian, six months.

Trustees To Seek Attorney's Advice

BY TROY MARTIN

Canyon school board Tuesday night tabled a decision on selection of a school depository in order to seek legal advice.

Bids were submitted by West Texas State Bank and First National Bank, both Canyon firms. First National presently is serving as depository for the school district.

Both banks offered maximum interest rates.

First National appended a paragraph to the bid form offering to compound time deposit interest daily. The bid form called for compounding interest on time deposits on a quarterly basis.

Bill Adams, First National president, contended that this gave his bank an edge on accrual of interest to the school district.

"How much higher can a bid be than maximum?" asked West Texas President David Levens. "We said we'd pay the maximum allowed under the law and that is what we'll pay. If that is compounding the interest daily, that's what we'll do."

Both banks agreed to handle school overdrafts at no charge.

First National offered to loan the school money on 30 days or less at 4 1/2 percent and at 4 percent on loans extending more than 30 days.

West Texas State Bank agreed to loan up to its legal maximum of $100,000 for an indefinite period at no interest.

First National's attorney questioned whether it would be legal for a loan to be made without interest being charged. Levens said he had checked with his attorney and was assured the loans would be legal.

Board Member Walter Graham said loans without at least some interest are not collectable.

"I don't see how that could hurt us," declared Board Member Joe Gill.

Wesley Cox made a motion that the "low bid" be accepted basing the low bid on West Texas State Bank's offer of interest free money.

Board President J.O. Parker broke in to object saying the matter needed further discussion. Cox withdrew his motion.

Letters from both banks were read setting forth past services of the institutions to the school district.

Representatives of the banks were asked to retire and then Levens and Adams were requested to return singly to the board room for questioning.

Adams attacked the financial capability of West Texas State Bank saying that institution is not capable of handling and protecting the school's funds without detriment to the community.

He said WTSB would have to buy securities to secure the

Willy Bolt Has Role In Mission

Willis M. Bolt, a West Texas State University graduate, has an important role in the Apollo 11 lunar landing mission, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration said.

Bolt, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Bolt of 402 S. Bivins, Amarillo, is an aerospace engineer at the NASA Manned Spacecraft Center in Houston.

The center provides control of manned space flights and will exercise fulltime control over the Apollo 11 flight from launch to recovery.

Bolt, a graduate of Petersburg, Tex., high school, received a bachelor of science degree in mathematics from West Texas State in 1961.

His wife, Susan, is the daughter of Mrs. Lois McAffee of Alamogordo, N. M.

Sparse Showing Before Tax Equalization Board

Only seven individuals plus representatives of several pipeline companies, two telephone companies and one electric company showed up Monday as commissioners court sat as a board of equalization.

Paul Glovier told the court that his 320-acre farm a mile north of Randall County Feed Yard has been badly damaged as a result of the yard's odor and asked that its valuation be lowered on the tax roll.

"It has been damaged as a place to live," Glovier told the board. The board took no action on Glovier's request.

Ken Quevreaux told the board that his company's taxes were assessed about $27,000 too high. He represented Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. The board voted to accept the company rendition. Commissioner Clarence Beckman abstained from voting.

Members of the board tried in vain to ascertain the present value of pipeline belonging to seven pipline companies in Randall County.

Members of the board argued that the pipelines should be taxed on 17 percent of the present value of pipelines in the county.

Virgil Brecheen of Pioneer Gas Company acted as spokesman for the pipeline representatives. He presented a schedule which he said was based on 25 percent of the life value of pipeline and allowing no depreciation.

He argued that if the formula advocated by the board is followed, his company will get a $100,000 decrease in value because some of its pipe was laid in 1929. He said this would be depreciated out by federal income tax depreciation schedules.

Commissioner Glenn Dowlen told him the county would not necessarily base its valuation on the IRS depreciation schedule but on the present worth of the line involved.

"You keep it up in shape," Dowlen declared. "If it springs a leak you fix it."

"We've always paid too much," retorted Brecheen.

Commissioner Bill Butler said he thought the group had reached an impasse.

"We've heard enough," said Commissioner Jim Fletcher "We will make a decision and then you can pay the tax or take us to court."

Members of the board set no date on which a decision on the pipeline tax would be made.

WT Beauty In Top Ten

A West Texas State University student, Marcia McEntyre, was one of the top 10 finalists in the 1969 Miss Texas Pageant held in Fort Worth.

Miss McEntyre represented Odessa as Miss West Texas in the contest Saturday night held in Will Rogers Auditorium.

She was named talent winner in preliminary competition with a flute solo. She played "Flight of the Bumblebee" and "Swinging Shepard Blues."

A junior majoring in music education, Miss McEntyre represented WTSU as Homecoming Queen for 1968.

She is a member of the Amarillo Symphony and is on scholarship with the symphony at WT. She is a member of Delta Zeta social sorority.

Miss Tanya Horton of Wellington, also a student at WTSU, represented Childress in the Miss Texas Pageant.

Separate Court Is Questioned

Randall County should not press for a separate district court at the present time.

This is what State Rep. Tom Christian of Claude told a group of county officials meeting at West Texas State Bank Monday.

In the group were Sheriff L. S. "Slim" Johnston and Commissioners Bill Butler, Clarence Beckman and Glenn Dowlen.

Legislation to establish a 181st District Court with jurisdiction in both Randall and Potter Counties has passed the legislature.

"I don't think we should reshuffle it now and re-do it," declared Representative Christian. "It is now on the governor's desk with legislation providing for 37 other courts.

"Now here's what you're faced with. You've got to have unanimous cooperation from the representatives of the two counties involved and I don't think you'd get that.

"I hope we wind up with half the docket of 47th District Court.

"It is questionable whether there is room in Amarillo for that court anyway."

Christian said he has talked to Senator Grady Hazlewood and that he and the senator appear to be of the same mind concerning the proposed new court.

"I think the thing to do right now is to get the court set up," Christian declared.

Water Film At Umbarger

A film dealing with the importation of water from the Mississippi will be shown Friday at 9 p.m. at the parish hall in Umbarger for all interested residents.

Sponsored by the Randall County Water Association, the film and program is open to families of area residents.

Guest speaker will be Dick Godwin of Hereford.

Enrollment Up At WTSU

West Texas State University has had 1,994 students start through registration during the two-day enrollment period, Monday and Tuesday.

The first class day was Wednesday.

Late registration will continue through Saturday, according to registrar Don Cates.

Half of the upper classmen registered Monday and freshmen and the remainder of the upperclassmen registered Tuesday.

Last year at this point in registration, Cates said, 1,913 students had started registration.

Eighty students registered during the late period last year. Cates said there was no indication that the figure for late registrants this year would be any more or any less than last year.

Canyon Seaman Aboard Apollo Recovery Ship

Seaman Chuck Smallwood of Canyon is stationed aboard the carrier "The Hornet", which is slated to be the recovery ship for the astronaut moon crew of Apollo 11.

Smallwood, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Smallwood of Canyon, has been aboard the ship since mid-June.

He has written his parents that "he is not expecting to have duty at the time of the landing and hopes to view the landing and get photos of the event." He is in the radar division for the U. S. Navy.

Smallwood also wrote his parents that "he hopes to see the United States President, Richard M. Nixon, if he does come aboard the ship." The admiral quarters of the ship are near Chuck's quarters.

Chuck graduated from Canyon High School, attended West Texas State University in Canyon and was enlisted in the Naval Reserves prior to going on active duty with the Navy in June. He is assigned for two years active duty.

Knowles On Scenic Board

Eddie Knowles was named Monday as Canyon's representative on the board of directors of the Palo Duro Scenic Association.

The association was formed about a month ago to push the construction of a scenic road through Palo Duro Canyon.

The president of the association, Jim Hayes of Clarendon, was in Canyon for a meeting Monday.

Others present for the meeting held in the West Texas State Bank were Dean House, Joe Giddon and Representative Tom Christian of Claude.

"The purpose of the association is to incorporate all the interest in the towns together," Hayes said.

"So far there has been a lot of interest but it has been uncoordinated," he said.

Hayes and Christian emphasized the benefits to the area from the road in the way of capital from the tourist trade.

The road has been in the planning stages for several years and Hayes said that this association was attempting to get the support of the people of the area before approaching the legislators.

Hayes said that the legislature would have to pass a special approriations bill to finance the road.

Tom Christian said that the association would have to go through another session of the legislature which would be in 1971 before construction could begin on the road.

Hayes said that the exact route of the road would not be announced until all the ranchers in the area had been contacted.

He said that the road would include about 30 miles of new road to tie in with existing roads.

Hayes said a tentative route for the road was west from Brice, up the canyon about 25 miles to the north side of the canyon south of Claude. It would then run on existing roads west and then turn south into the canyon.

Hayes said the members of the board would do their utmost to plan the road with the ranchers' support. "We have two ranchers on the board," he said.

He said that the ranchers' biggest concern was that the road would cut part of their pasture off from water.

He said that the legislators in this area have all indicated their support of the road.

Hayes plans to be in Austin during the special session of the legislature.

The next meeting of the board of directors of the association will be held July 25, in Clarendon.

Other officers of the association are Clifford Farmer of Memphis, secretary-treasurer; Jim Beeson of Memphis, vice president; and Travis Aaron of Amarillo, publicity chairman.

Members of the board are Kenneth Capy of Turkey, Ed Harrel of Claude, Sam Stewart of Claude, and Bright Newhouse of Clarendon.

Two more board members, one from Amarillo and one from Childress, are to be selected, Hayes said.

The board meetings will be open to the public, Hayes said.

Jim Hayes (left) and Eddie Knowles, new member of the board of directors of the Palo Duro Scenic Road Association, made plans Monday for the next board meeting July 25.

Absentee Balloting Underway

Absentee balloting for the Aug. 5 vote on nine constitutional amendments began Wednesday.

Absentee balloting will continue through Aug. 1, according to personnel in the Randall County clerk's office.

Those eligible to vote absentee are registered voters in Randall County and registered voters in the state of Texas that have transferred to Randall County.

Those transferring their registration must do so by Thursday, July 31 to be eligible to vote here, the spokesman said.

WT Construction Months Ahead

Construction work on the new $3.1 million physical education building at West Texas State University is two months ahead of schedule, according to Virgil Henson, financial vice-president.

The building is 65 per cent completed and Henson said he hoped the building would be open for use by the beginning of the spring semester.

The Board of Regents, Texas State Senior Colleges, approved a bond sale in October and awarded the contract to Western Builders of Amarillo.

The 180,000 square foot structure is located on the east edge of the campus near the east dining hall.

The new building is being constructed with three levels, Henson said.

It will include a 50-meter Olympic swimming pool with dressing rooms. A large activity room will house four basketball courts side by side for intramural basketball, volleyball and tennis, Henson said.

The offices of the men's and women's activity classes and

Milligan To Active Duty

Assistant director of bands for the Canyon public schools, Terry Milligan, has been called to active duty with the army effective Sept. 28.

He will be stationed in Aberdeen, Maryland, for nine weeks as a second lieutenant with the ordinance corp.

Milligan has been assistant director of bands for one year. He received a B. M. degree from West Texas State University and is a member of the Amarillo Symphony and of the cast of "TEXAS."

Milligan said he plans to pursue a doctor's degree after released from the service.

Six Felony Sentences From 47th

Judge Gene Jordan of 47th District Court has sentenced six men who plead guilty to felony offenses.

William Duebler, 19, of 513 Ave. K in Lubbock and Gary Dale Earnest, 19, of 2708 Colgate in Lubbock were sentenced to eight years in the state penitentiary.

The pair was charged with the burglary of White's Auto Store in Canyon. The incident occurred about a year ago.

Floyd Willard, 32, of Nashville, Tenn., plead guilty to theft and was sentenced to four years in the state penitentiary.

Willard was charged with taking money from the Dwight Cheek Trucking Co. in Amarillo.

Guy M. Cook, 17, of 1312 Buchanan in Amarillo received a two-year probated sentence after he plead guilty to burglary.

He was charged with taking several stereo tapes from an automobile in Amarillo.

Jeffrey Pair, 17, also of 1312 Buchanan, was given a two-year probated sentence after he plead guilty to driving without owner's consent.

Arthur Gene Terry, 24, address unknown, received two-years probation after he plead guilty to forgery.

Cook, Pair, Deubler and Earnest were indicted July 9 by the Randall County Grand Jury.

The grand jury also indicted James Harry Griffin for embezzlement and Robert Browning for theft by false pretext. Ray Cartwright, charged with assault with intent to murder, was no billed.

I got the straight information this week from highly reliable sources that Ralph Yarborough will be a candidate for reelection next year.

His opponent is expected to be John Connally. This is who I am expecting to run but I won't be surprised if Lyndon Johnson has tired of the Perdenales by that time enough to get back into politics.

I still think it will be Connally. If the former governor decides to run, George Bush, Republican congressman from Houston, will stay out of the race.

If a nobody opposes Yarborough in the Democratic primary, expect Bush to come on strong.

Yarborough will be hard for Bush to beat. At this point I am doubtful that the congressman could do it although there will be a lot of changes by November of next year.

If Connally takes him on, the senator hasn't got a chance.

"TEXAS" is playing to sell-out crowds. Manager Raymond Raillard says it is the best production yet.

I was talking to my professor friend, John Kahler, this week. John thinks there is something very significant about the Palo Duro Canyon production.

"It is living proof that you don't need obscenity in drama," Dr. Kahler declared.

A bunch of pipeline experts at the county equalization board meeting this week in effect told the board they don't know what a mile of pipeline would cost at current prices.

The "schedule" they presented was vague and did not clearly establish values of the property involved, namely pipeline.

There ought to be some way to establish the value of such properties and tax them on an equal basis with everyone else.

Now that I'm on the subject, I want to again voice my opposition to any type of ad valorem tax. It is the most unfair tax in the world.

Eventually we will have to find some means other than ad valorem tax to finance our government.

Proclamation

BY THE
County Judge of Randall County

TO ALL TO WHOM THESE PRESENTS SHALL COME:

I, Carroll E. Brown, County Judge of Randall County, do hereby declare the week of July 20-26, 1969 as FARM SAFETY WEEK in Randall County, for the following reasons:

WHEREAS, the citizens of Randall County are proud of our farm families from whom comes our abundance of food and fiber; therefore, our citizens are deeply concerned about the safety and well-being of this segment of our population as they go about the sometimes hazardous task of producing the commodities needed by the entire population; and

WHEREAS, farm and ranch accidents continue to take more lives annually and cause painful disabling injuries; and

WHEREAS, the President of the United States and the Governor of Texas have proclaimed the same period as FARM SAFETY WEEK; and

WHEREAS, during this week, a statewide farm accident prevention education program will be undertaken by the Texas Farm Bureau, the Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council, the Texas Safety Association, the Texas Agricultural Extension Service, Texas 4-H Clubs, Texas Future Farmers and Future Homemakers of America, Young Farmers and Young Homemakers of Texas and the Randall County Farm Bureau with the theme, "Manage To Prevent Accidents"; and

WHEREAS, such a campaign will do much to call to the attention of our rural citizens the need for observing safety precautions which would reduce the tragic toll inflicted by accidents;

THEREFORE, I urge all citizens to recognize this special period, and especially urge farm families of Randall County to become more safety conscious, not only during FARM SAFETY WEEK, but every day of the year.

Judge Carroll E. Brown, Randall County

Our World

BY ANN BROWN

Many people currently championing the Great American Dream seem to have vague, erroneous concepts as to what constitutes said Dream. Our pilgrim fathers risked their lives crossing an uncharted ocean to gain freedom, independence, and land of their own. That goal is still the Great American Dream.

American goals are not "two cars in every garage and two chickens in every pot" as our welfare politicans would have us believe. Sacrificing vital defense programs for handouts is just another way of trading our birthright for a mess of pottage.

The "poor people" will not need welfare if we allow the communists to "liberate" us; everyone who is not murdered will go to work. And the reluctant ones will probably be assigned to Siberia.

When queried about goals in life, college freshmen almost invariably answer, "I want to be on my own." In reply to specific questions, they say, "I want a little business of my own," or "I want a little place of my own." Only about 5%, usually from the extremes in the intelligence scale, answer differently.

Private enterprise is not being destroyed by "greedy capitalists" as the rabble rousers contend, but by our oppressive tax structure that has narrowed the margin of profit until only the big producers can survive. Ours is an agrarian economy. The land is our basic source of wealth. But an ambitious young farmer can no longer have that little place of his own, since our government has made it profitable for the rich to lose money; his rich neighbor needs it for a tax dodge.

Inflated land prices, and cheap farm products have made it impossible for land to pay for itself. There was a time when the son of a landowner could expect to inherit land. Not anymore; now he fears to do so. Inheritance taxes on land are so exhorbitant that an heir has two choices: He can sell the land and pay the tax (if it will bring enough), or he can spend the rest of his life paying the government for the land his parents spent all their lives paying for so they could leave it to their children.

No welfare or guaranteed-income program can possibly fulfill the Great American Dream. Americans do not want charity and chains; they want industry and independence.

The demanders who are screaming for fatter welfare checks and guaranteed incomes are not the Americans who built this country; they are the ones who were either brought over here against their will, or they are Johnny-come-latelys who simply came over for a free ride. Who ever heard of a member of the Daughters of the American Revolution, or of the United Daughters of the Confederacy asking for anything but a chance to work?

Our government has become a sort of modern Robin Hood: It takes a lot from the Haves, and gives a little to the Have Nots.

If a man is given a fish, he is only blessed for a day; if he is taught to catch fish for himself, he is blessed for life.

The federal government has become our biggest land owner (760 million acres, one-third of the land area in the U. S.). Instead of extracting the very life blood from the taxpayers for endless give-away programs, why not give the indigents a little plot of land, and let them grow their own food or starve.

There are plenty of industries that would welcome the opportunity to erect a plant in a rural area, if good workers were available. This would provide cash income for the non-commercial farmer. Our average farmer has to feed 44 people besides himself--on borrowed money. Is this fair?

In addition to enabling the poor to gain self respect and independence, it would relieve the congestion of the cities, and ease many of the pressures that make men behave like beasts.

If our government does not restrict the despotic powers that are blocking the Great American Dream for so many Americans, that Dream may turn into a nightmare for us all.

Textbook Clinic Begins At WTSU

The Living Textbook Workshop, sponsored jointly by West Texas State University and the Amarillo Globe-News, begins its sixth year on the WTSU campus July 20-23.

Designed to stimulate good teachers to improve their teaching through the newspaper as an instructional tool, the conference presents some of the nation's outstanding columnists and news analysts.

Teachers representing some 43 towns in Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma and Kansas are planning to attend the conference.

The conference begins with registration at 4 p.m. Sunday in the foyer of Brown Hall, WTSU campus. Dr. James P. Cornette, president of the university, and S. B. Whittenburg, publisher of Amarillo Globe Publishing Company, will extend welcome to those attending the conference at a dinner served in the east dining hall on campus.

Conference coordinator is L. Jack Edmonson, WTSU director of public services and personnel and Assistant Professor of Education.

Dr. Lee Williamson, conference director and superintendent of Pueblo, Colo., Public Schools, is master of ceremonies for the evening. He will present the keynote address, "A Case for the Newspaper in the Classroom."

He served with the Amarillo Public Schools for nineteen years as a teacher at Horace Mann Junior High, assistant principal of Nixson Junior High, principal of Bowie Junior High, director of instruction, and assistant superintendent before leaving April 1 of this year.

Dr. Williamson has conducted numerous workshops each year for several years in areas of supervision, guidance, mathematics and social studies.

Conference events begin Monday morning with breakfast and orientation, followed by an address, "The Newspaper Business Today," by S. B. Whittenburg. Thomas Thompson, editor of the Globe-Times since 1954, will speak on "The Reader Speaks Back."

Up, Up and Away-To College Is Upward Bound Purpose

BY ELAINE PEEPLES

The purpose of the Upward Bound program is to help students from low-income families become contributing citizens.

According to Mack Bush, project director, the program has been a success under this guideline.

One hundred per cent of the students participating in the program at West Texas State University the summer after high school graduation have continued their college education.

Nationwide statistics show that of the students who were a part of the first Upward Bound program in the United States, 70 per cent are now college seniors.

This is compared to the across-the-scale average for all college students which is slightly below 30 per cent, Bush said.

"These students were highly selected," Bush said, "because it was an experimental program." Now the program has educational status under the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Bush said.

Seventy five per cent of the students participating in the program before high school graduation enroll in the session in the summer after they have completed high school, he said.

The Upward Bound program began its third summer on the WTSU campus Sunday.

Upward Bound is divided into three groups, Bush said.

Students enroll in their first summer program the summer before they are juniors in high school.

They receive no academic credit for courses taken in the program "simply encouragement and enrichment," Bush said.

"We use the inductive approach to learning by asking questions and using reasoning to provide the students with a learning experience," he said.

The summer session lasts six weeks and coincides with the regular summer semester at WTSU.

The students attend classes on Monday, Wednesday and Friday in computer math, social studies, English, study skills to teach them how to study, and physical education. Tutoring sessions are provided each night.

On Tuesday and Thursday, they attend classes in science, art or crafts, reading and physical education.

On Saturday, group guidance sessions are held for all the students.

The second part of the program is called the follow-up program, Bush said. "We work with the students in their schools continuing to stay in touch with them and providing counseling and tutoring for them," he said.

Bush said they set up a meeting place either at the school or community center in the student's area and use college students plus a qualified teacher to supervise their activities and provide services.

The third phase of the program is called the bridge summer. After the students graduate from high school they come to the campus and enroll in regular college courses.

"Basically they are on their own except we do try to keep up with them and provide additional counseling and tutoring to help them make this adjustment," Bush said.

Students in the program live on the WTSU campus with all expenses paid. Each student is also provided with a weekly stipend of $10 per week during the summer program and $5 per week during the follow-up program.

The students receive no financial aid from the Upward Bound program to continue in college but Bush said they did introduce the students to the financial aids officers on any campus they choose.

The average expenditure per student is higher than in the regular school system, Bush said, because of the room and board payments.

Without the expenditure for room and board, the money spent on each student is close to the regular average, he said.

"We spend about $2,400 in a three-year period on each student but if they can become college graduates and if they pay $300 a year in income taxes, they pay it back in eight years," Bush said.

"The idea is to help them become contributing citizens," he said.

Bush said that most of the students from the Upward Bound program have done well in college.

He said students from the program at WTSU were now enrolled in college at WTSU, South Plains College, Texas Lutheran College, Compton Junior College in California and West Point.

Bush said he felt that entrance into college was where Upward Bound helped students the most because they often didn't ask for direction from their college counselors.

"By and large we have good support from their parents," Bush said. He said that the program had a public advisory committee and they tried to involve as many parents as possible.

"We keep them advised on what we are doing and tell them about our policies," he said.

"I also listen to their suggestions and most of the time it is to be tougher on the kids," he said.

To choose students for entrance into the program, recommendations are obtained from high school counselors and community center directors.

There are two basic qualifications students must meet, Bush said. "They must be college potential and meet the economic guidelines of HEW," he said.

The current limit on enrollment is 60 students and Bush said he didn't expect this limit to be raised.

About possible cut-backs on the program Bush said it would depend on evaluations of what is most important.

If it is felt that it is important for students to get into college, then the program will probably be continued, he said.

In the program this fall, ten are enrolled as bridge students, five will enroll in vocational courses this fall, and 38 are pre-college students, Bush said.

Of the bridge students, one is from Friona, two from Levelland, one from Anton, and six from Amarillo.

All of the pre-college students are from high schools in Amarillo.

Bush said that some of the staff for the program were from the university and some were from the public school systems. Five college students are also employed as assistants.

Colleges and universities in Texas that now have an Upward Bound programs are WTSU, Texas Technological College, Southern Methodist University, McMurry, Prairie View A & M, Texas Southern, Texas A & I, University of Texas at El Paso, Baylor, Huston-Tillotson at Austin, St. Mary's in San Antonio, and Southwest Texas State College at San Marcos.

The woodwind ensemble began classes Tuesday at the summer Band Camp beginning held in the Fine Arts Building at West Texas State University. The instructor for the class is Rowie Durden, clarinet instructor at WTSU. Eight hundred students are enrolled in the camp.

Ohio School Students Visit Canyon Classroom

An unusual grassroots experience in learning is being shared by 35 Ohio high school students this summer and the Texas Panhandle was selected as one of their classrooms.

The group, 21 girls and 14 boys, is on the homeward leg of a 30-day field ecology trip to the southwestern part of the country. Ecology is a branch of biology that deals with the relations between living organisms and their environment.

They are participating in a pilot program called the Worthington Field Studies, a non-profit organization in the Columbus, Ohio, area.

Their traveling classroom consists of a specially equipped bus, a field kitchen built into a trailer and a mini-bus. They live in tents at night and cook their own meals.

The program, now in its second year, was the creation of Robert McBurney, a biology teacher and coordinator of science education in the Worthington public schools. He was responsible, in large part, for the building of the large bus in which the trips are made.

"There is only so much learning that can be done in the classroom," said William E. Nichols, a biology teacher and one of six instructors accompanying the students. "We wanted to get them into the field."

Nichols, who radiates an infectious exuberance for the need of such a program, describes himself as "the only biology teacher who also is a bus driver." In previous summers Nichols drove a Greyhound bus to augment his teaching salary.

"It is a year around program," Nichols said. "On weekends and holidays trips are taken to nearby areas."

Nichols said all the students "are interested in some area of science. It seems that girls are more interested than boys."

He said the program is designed as a survey of ecology. "We want to leave them wanting to come back to the areas we visited," he said.

This summer's field trip cost each of the students about $10 a day. They will receive one class credit in field ecology.

Their trip was hardly underway last month when they ran into a tornado at Salina, Kan., a snow storm at Monarch Pass in Colorado. Their classroom work took them to Bryce Canyon and Zion National Park in Utah, the Grand Canyon, the desert in Arizona and the White Sands area in New Mexico.

For two days this week they camped at Palo Duro State Park, toured the helium plant near Amarillo and the Killgore Research Center on the campus of West Texas State University and assisted Dr. Gerald Schultz, West Texas State geologist, wash for fossil bones.

Nichols said the group's stay at Palo Duro Park was one of the highlights of the trip. He said Joe Craddock, a park attendant, "was the most hospitable person I ever met. He is my idea of the typical Texan."

Nichols said he felt the trip would aid him in his teaching. "I have read about these places and things in books," he said, "and now I have seen them and can talk about them with a first-hand knowledge."

All Stars End Season In Third

The Canyon Little League All-Stars ended their season Tuesday night in third place in the area.

The team played games Monday and Tuesday in a tournament in Dimmitt.

The Canyon team lost to Dimmit 14-1 Monday. Coach Dick Dawdy said, "It was a bad night with a great many errors."

Tuesday night, the Canyon All-Stars beat Castro County 13-7 to wind up in third place.

Steve King knocked two homeruns in the Tuesday night game, Dawdy said.

Children's Circus Is Held

A circus for neighborhood children and adults will be held at 8:15 p.m. Thursday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James Bryan at 2327 14th Ave.

The circus played to 21 spectators Tuesday night and a second performance was to be held Wednesday.

Children sponsoring the circus were Tawny and Markaye Henderson, Joyce and Linda Warren, Tommy and Twila Bryan and Beth Warren.

Acts and the performers were Tommy and Twila doing balancing tricks, Joyce and Linda as comedians, Markaye as a clown and Tawny with acrobatics. Beth served at the concession stand.

The children sold cookies, for one cent and lemonade for one cent a glass.

News Brief

Visiting with Mr. and Mrs. James Latimer Tuesday evening was his father, J. J. Latimer of Lubbock. The Latimers joined an aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Euman Lyles of Turkey, who were camped in Palo Duro Canyon. The group attended the outdoor production "TEXAS."

News About Town

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Swetnam of Amarillo and daughter, Jackie had dinner Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Jack Drake and Terry.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Fowlkes have begun construction on their new home in north Randall County.

the office of the director of student activities and his staff will be in the building.

Also included in the structure will be 10 handball courts, an eight-lane bowling alley, nine activity rooms for ballroom dancing, weight lifting, etc., and eight classrooms.

Henson said there was also a lot of general usage space.

The bowling alley and the handball courts will be on the sub-floor level. The swimming pool and the large activity room will be on the ground floor and will be two stories high.

The remainder of the two stories will be occupied by the other activity rooms and classrooms, he said.

The total cost of the building is financed by $1,050,315 for the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, a loan of $1,284,000 and the $1,175,000 revenue bond sale.

funds while FNB already has such securities on hand. The law requires that a certain percentage of public funds deposited be protected with bonds or other acceptable securities.

Adams said the money spent by WTSB for these securities would be siphoned out of the community's economy.

"Where does First National get its securities?" asked Levens. "We would operate just like they do."

Adams had told the board in effect that he could embarrass his competitor by withdrawing his bid and allowing the depository to go to WTSB since he contended that that firm is not capable of handling it.

"We feel they just bid to harrass us and make us pay a higher rate of interest," the First National president declared.

"We came here to do business," said Levens. "We can handle three acounts like this one and not be in any strain. "We've lost two depositories where we had the best bid. Not anymore."

Adams said the WTSB offer of money at no interest was of no significance since the school district seldom borrows money. FNB Board Chairman Levi Cole testified that it has been a number of years since the school has borrowed any money.

Board Member Joe Gill said the school may be in the market to borrow some short term money while the new junior high school building is under construction.

Parker asked School Business Manager Bob Phillips for comment.

Phillips said he considered the West Texas State Bank bid the better bid.

School Superintendent Jerry Jacobs told the board he thought it would be a mistake to make a decision without first obtaining legal advice.

It was at this point the board voted to table the decision.

Parker said the decision would be announced at the August meeting of the board. Adams expressed disappointment over the delay and said he would be away on vacation when the board meets next month.

Parker said an effort would be made to expedite the legal investigation in time for a called meeting before Adams leaves on vacation.

In other business, the board accepted low bids on milk, bread, ice cream, canned vegetables and canned fruits.

to the list of dignitaries to accompany Price.

The group will arrive in Amarillo late today unless legislative business delays the trip until Friday, Price said.

The group plans to begin the tour at the Randall County Feed Yards and then visit the Corn Starch Factory and view the crops in Dimmitt.

They will have lunch in Hereford and tour the Holly Sugar Plant and the feed yards and vegetable crops there before going to Friona to see the packing plants.

In Plainview, the group will visit the High Plains Research Foundation where Price said he would invite persons from Lamb, Bailey, Swisher and Briscoe Counties to see the experiments.

The group will also tour the castor bean oil plant and the Jimmy Dean Hog Parlor and Packing House in Plainview.

A reception and dinner with various agriculture and civic leaders will be held in Pampa Friday night, Price said. The steaks for the dinner will be furnished by the Texas Cattle Feeders Association.

Saturday morning the group plans to visit the Hill Chemical Plant in Borger and then meet with people from Moore and Dallam Counties in Stratford for lunch and to view the crops there.

In Perryton, people from Ochiltree, Hemphill, Roberts and Hansford Counties will meet with the group.

Price said plans were to fly back to Canyon for the barbecue in Palo Duro Canyon State Park and for the performance of "TEXAS" Saturday.

Sunday morning, the group hopes to have a breakfast in the park at Memphis to meet with leaders from Collingsworth, Donley, Armstrong and Carson counties. They will see the short staple cotton and the cotton grading station in Memphis.

The group will then fly back to Amarillo for the return trip to Washington.

Sheriff To Youth Meet

L. S. (Slim) Johnston, Randall County Sheriff, will be a member of a panel discussion to be held Aug. 2 at the Texas Youth Conference.

"The Dialogue With Youth on Law Enforcement" will be held in Austin.

The purpose of the discussion is to provide those interested in creating respect for law enforcement and preventing juvenile crime with an opportunity for discussion with those directly affected and to establish projects to solve the problems discussed.

Each group of six youth delegates and two adults will cover the problems pertaining to law enforcement, the situation that exists today, and what action may be taken to relieve the problem.

The delegates will work with local law enforcement officers to put the solutions to work when they return to their communities.

Sheriff Johnston, who is president of the Texas Sheriff's Association, said he felt the discussion with youth would be a great benefit in helping him to understand today's young people.

Guests Visit In Hill Home

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. Hill had as their guests during the week end his son, Mr. and Mrs. J. Davis Hill of Austin.

His son is principal for Reagan High School in Austin with an enrollment of 2,300 students and his wife also teaches in the Austin Schools.

Also visiting the Hills were Miss Mary Hill of Waco, a sister of Dr. Hill and former assistant librarian at West Texas State University; and Mrs. Cena McCauley of Moody, another sister of Dr. Hill.

Accompanying the two ladies was Mrs. McCauley's daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Rutherford of Longview. She is a former WTSU student.

HOME DEMONSTRATION AGENT, Mrs. Becky Hall, looks over record books for the 4-H County dress revue on Monday prior to sending the clothing records to Hereford for judging this week. The county revue will be held Friday night at 8 p.m. in the Youth Activities Building of the First Baptist Church and is open to the public at no charge.

4-H Dress Revue Set Friday

Randall County's annual 4-H dress revue will be held Friday night at the Youth Activities Building of the First Baptist Church.

The revue, which begins at 8 p.m., is open to the public at no charge.

Winners in the county revue will be advanced to the district revue in Amarillo August 1. Divisions are being judged in both the junior and senior classifications.

The program Friday night will center around the theme "Sew Your Own Thing" with Connie Brazzil as mistress of ceremonies and Kathy Gist as narrator. Music will be furnished for the revue by Phyllis Gerdsen and the opening 4-H motto, pledge and creed will be led by Jerry Crain of Cleta 4-H Club.

Thirteen entries are participating for the county revue honors including 4 senior and 9 junior contestants. Record books, which were due Monday, are being judged this week in Hereford by Argen Draper, home demonstration agent, and Rita Huckert, assistant agent.

Judging of garment construction and appearance will be conducted today, Thursday, beginning at 9 a.m. at the St. Paul Lutheran Church in Canyon. Judging the garments will be Ruth Hughey, home demonstration agent from Armstrong County, and Nancy Forsythe of Amarillo, public service home economist.

Practice for the public revue will be conducted Friday afternoon at the Baptist YAB at 2 p.m. with various "modeling tips" being given by Dorothy Morrison, program director for the Dairy Council, Inc.

Terracing Increases

Parallel terracing continues to increase in Palo Duro Soil and Water Conservation District, according to John D. O'Conner, head of the local Soil Conservation Service office.

Since July 1, 1968 over 77,000 feet of parallel terraces have been installed by farmers and ranchers in Randall County.

"This increase is the result of persons becoming aware of erosion on their farms and ranches and taking steps to do something about it and the fact that parallel terraces are designed to fit modern day farming techniques," stated O'Connor.

While the primary function of a parallel terrace system is to shorten slopes and break up water concentrations, the conservation of moisture is also an important function.

Parallel terraces reduce runoff and help keep the water where it can be utilized by growing crops.

Some of the farmers and ranchers in the Palo Duro Soil and Water Conservation District who have recently completed parallel terraces are Lonnie Byars, A. M. Warren, J. W. Spencer, R. R. Lindsey, Frank Kimbrough, Lucille Nance Jones and R. E. "Babe" Walker.

Home Canning, Freezing Saves Money In Seasons

(Editor's Note: In cooperation with Becky Hall a summer series on canning, freezing, pcikles-relishes, jams, jellies and marmalades will be forthcoming in issues of the Canyon News and Canyon Sunday News. Basis for information on all articles are booklets available to the public in the offices of the home demonstration agent.)

BY BECKY HALL
Home Demonstration Agent

It's home freezing and canning time.

Now in the peak of their season, fresh fruits and vegetables offer highest food value, best flavor, and lower than usual prices on Texas products for preserving.

Mrs. Gwendolyne Clyatt, Extension consumer marketing specialist with Texas A&M University, adds that canning and freezing usually can save money if foods used are in season.

Canning equipment and a home freezer involve a large capital investment. If a homemaker decides to preserve foods her first question should be: "Will I use the equipment enough to offset its cost?"

A freezer doubles for home freezing and for buying specials on frozen foods at the food store. Additional freezer expenses include equipment depreciation, interest on money paid for equipment, repairs, and electricity.

The first rule for canning or freezing is the selection of sound, fresh foods at the right stage of maturity--just at the stage they would be best eaten fresh. Next, speed in preparation is necessary. Promptness in handling and processing any product helps retain quality. Wash all fruits and vegetables thoroughly, whether or not they are to be pared. Dirt contains some of the bacteria hardest to kill. Wash small lots at a time under running water. Don't let fruits and vegetables soak; they may lose flavor and food value. Handle them gently to avoid bruising.

When canning fruits and vegetables follow your canning book suggestions for method of processing (the application of heat to food). Regardless of the good condition of the food or its method of preparation, food will spoil if not processed for the required length of time and at the correct temperature. Use of a pressure cooker is the recommended method for processing low acid foods such as meats of all kinds and all vegetables except tomatoes, sauerkraut, and ripe pimiento peppers.

The accuracy of your pressure cooker should be tested once a year. Rubber gaskets around the lid should be replaced when they lose their resiliency and fail to snap back in place when stretched. Take off removable petcocks and safety valves and wash and dry thoroughly after each use. Occasionally soak these parts in vinegar to remove any corrosion. Use toothpick, pipe cleaner or string to clean openings in lid of the canner.

Wash pressure canner thoroughly after each use. Do not immerse lid in water. Do not use harsh scouring powders.

To remove odors and stains, use one of the following mixtures and process at 5 pounds pressure for 5 minutes:

1. Juice of 1 lemon and 2 quarts of water.
2. Two tablespoons of vinegar and 2 quarts of water.
3. Handful of Irish potato peelings and 2 quarts of water.

If the lid of a pressure canner that seals metal to metal is difficult to remove or steam escapes, grease the closing surfaces with saltfree fat.

If the canner lid is equipped with a rubber gasket, keep lid and gasket clean and free from grease.

Never add cold water to a hot canner. Guard against sudden cooling that might cause it to warp or crack.

Store a clean, dry canner with crumpled newspaper inside to absorb moisture and odors. Wrap cover in paper and invert it on top of canner.

Check the guage on the pressure canner at least once a year and more often if canner is used frequently or if lid is dropped or receives a hard knock. If the guage is not registering correctly, food might be either underprocessed or overprocessed. A weighted guage needs only to be cleaned thoroughly.

Off-standard jars (one trip jars) called a packers' jar are unreliable in preserving food and many times cause a waste of food and work. For best results select Mason (tempered glass) jars. Another disadvantage of using make-shift jars is the inaccuracy of the mouth width; therefore, the lids ride on the edge and cannot seal.

After selecting quality equipment and supplies examine the tops of jars to see that there are no nicks, cracks, or sharp edges to hinder sealing. Then wash jars well in hot soapy water. Scald thoroughly. Invert jars on clean folded cloth. Scald lids by placing them in pan and pouring boiling water over them. Do not boil, but let them stay in water until ready to use.

Prepare the food according to recipe. Pack food in jars to not more than 1/2 inch of top of jar. (Do not pack corn, peas, lima beans and meats any higher than 1 inch from top of jar). Add liquid according to canning or freezing directions of specific food. Then wipe top of jar free of all seeds, pulp, grease, etc. before placing scalded lid on jar then screw the band firmly tight. Place the jars in the cooker and process required length of time according to time table. After removing jars from canner or cooker, place the jars 2 or 3 inches apart on several thicknesses of cloth to cool. Do not set the jars in a draft or on a cold, wet surface. Do not cover them. Test for seal when jars are cold, by tapping the lid with a spoon. A clear, ringing sound means a seal. If the lid is curved down, the jar is sealed. Press the center of the lid--if it is down and will not move, the jar is sealed. You can test your seal by hearing, seeing and feeling. If jar is not sealed, you have an opportunity to recan contents and thus save your food.

When a jar of canned vegetables or meat is opened, DO NOT TASTE THE COLD FOOD. As a safeguard against using canned foods that may be affected with spoilage that is not readily detected, heat all low acid foods (all meats and all vegetables except tomatoes) at boiling temperature 10 to 15 minutes before tasting or using.

Don't use canned food that shows any sign of spoilage. Look closely at each container before opening it. Bulging can ends, jar lids, or rings, or a lead--these may mean food has spoiled. When you open a container look for other signs--spurting liquid, an off odor, or mold.

It's possible for canned vegetables to contain the poison causing botulism--a serious food poisoning--without showing signs of spoilage. There is no danger of botulism if pressure canner is in perfect order and every canning step is done correctly. But unless you're absolutely sure of your guage and canning methods, boil home-canned vegetables before tasting. Heating usually makes any odor of spoilage more evident.

Bring vegetables to a rolling boil; then cover and boil for at least 10 minutes. Boil spinach and corn 20 minutes. If the food looks spoiled, foams, or has an off odor during heating, destroy it.

Burn spoiled vegetables, or dispose of the food so that it will not be eaten by humans or animals.
